Christmas Seal Contributions Fall Behind

A mailing delay has caused Christmas Seals to arrive late in many homes in the Virginia Lung Association's Central Region, according to Mrs. J. B. Pervall, president.

"This, in turn," she said, "has thrown contributions to the Christmas Seal Campaign behind those received this time last year.

"However," Mrs. Pervall went on, "if our contributors will send their gifts in as soon as possible there is a chance that we may be able to recover our losses before the first of the year."

Teachers Learn About the Counseling Program At AMS

Pictured here is a group of teachers who meet with Mrs. Bolling Carter, 8th grade guidance-counselor at Appomattox Middle School. The teachers volunteered to meet as a group for three group sessions to discuss common problems and concerns as well as to experience what students experience in group sessions. There have been two teacher groups and now parents have been invited to participate in groups.

If any parent of a 7th or 8th grade student would like to participate in a group for three sessions with Mrs. Carter, please call 352-2135 as soon as possible. This could be a rewarding and educational experience in which the opportunity is given to discuss common concerns of parents of 7th and 8th grade students.

Christmas Seal funds are used in year-round programs aimed at the prevention and control of lung diseases in the Central Region. Contributions sent in from area residents are budgeted in the region for life and breath clinics or better breathing programs for lung disease patients and their families, where both can learn to live more comfortably with diseases such as emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

Family asthma programs are also being presented in the state by the lung association, in which parents of asthmatic children may learn to cope with this frightening ailment. Asthma education workshops for teachers, physical education teachers, and school nurses are also being held in Virginia to help school personnel understand problems associated with the disease.

Improvement of medical care for lung disease patients through fellowships for young physicians at the Medical College of Virginia and the University of Virginia Medical Center is also provided by Christmas Seals.

A special teaching professorship at Eastern Virginia Medical School helps train medical students in lung disease care. Scholarships are provided annually for nurses, respiratory therapists, and allied health personnel to further their studies.

Regional seminars are conducted regularly to keep physicians, nurses and allied health personnel abreast of the latest developments in lung disease care.

"Continuation of these vital programs depends on public support," Mrs. Pervall stated.

"We ask everyone to be aware of the pressing need for help in the Christmas Seal Campaign, in order that progress in bringing better respiratory health to Virginians may continue in 1979."
